Category: Elder abuse, reckless homicide.

In 1993 Jim Mason, age 57, was a friend of the Vallandingham family, with a special fondness for their son, John, then 26. Mason, somewhat mentally challenged, married John in 1993 when she had a sex-change operation and began to call herself Christine Newton-John. Alas, the marriage was not blessed. Christine had long been suspected of abusing her aging husband. Thus, when Mason was found dead in a swimming pool on 6/2/2008, authorities investigated. A surveillance camera's film proved Christine had exercised her frail husband to death. On 43 separate occasions Mason had struggled to leave the pool that day. And 43 straight times Christine pushed him away from the pool's edge, forcing him to do even more laps and dragging him around by the head and feet until he stroked out, so to speak. Newton-John pleaded guilty to reckless homicide. She is serving a five year prison sentence but is not in charge of the pool.
